Great Place to Work® Ranks Esker Among Top 30 in Its Best Workplaces France Classification

MADISON, WIS. — March 23, 2017 — Esker, a worldwide leader in document process automation solutions and pioneer in cloud computing, today announced it was ranked in 29th place of the Best Workplaces France 2017 by Great Place to Work® in the category of companies with fewer than 500 employees. This is Esker's first time participating in the Best Workplaces France ranking.

Esker is a great place to work for 94 percent of its employees

Seventy-nine percent of Esker France employees participated in the Great Place to Work survey which was conducted at the end of 2016. Employees were evaluated on their well-being at work around five main themes: Credibility, Respect, Fairness, Pride and Camaraderie. Key results from the Great Place to Work survey include:

- 94 percent of employees said that Esker is a great place to work
- 95 percent said that there is a friendly work environment
- 95 percent feel they have the resources and material to do their jobs and can count on their colleagues
- 92 percent said they are proud to work at Esker

"Thanks to the company's agility and the priority that it accords to the well-being of its employees, Esker ranks among the top Best Workplaces in France," said Patrick Dumoulin, director at Great Place to Work France.

Less than 8 percent turnover signifies well-being at work

For over 30 years, Esker continues to develop and place its employees at the center of its business. Thanks to its agile approach, Esker strives to promote employee integration and growth. After hiring close to 50 employees in France in 2016, Esker maintains its ambitious recruitment plan for 2017 to support the company's development both in France and internationally.

"I would like to thank all Esker employees. It's because of their hard work and investment in company objectives that we are included in this classification," said Jean-Michel Bérard, CEO at Esker. "This award recognizes their well-being at work, and I am proud to be able to offer them an excellent and stimulating work environment that allows them to flourish professionally."
