Esker All Access 2026 to Showcase the Next Generation of Agentic AI for the Office of the CFO

More than 500 finance, procurement, and customer service leaders will explore how trusted, purpose-built AI agents turn int

LYON, France, and MIDDLETON, Wis. — August 27, 2026 — Esker, the leading AI Automation Suite for the Office of the CFO, is ready to kick off Esker All Access 2026, its flagship conference taking place September 8-10, 2026, in Chicago, Illinois. The event will bring together over 500 customers, prospects, partners, sponsors, and Esker executives for keynote sessions, networking events, and product workshops to explore how AI automation can drive greater efficiency and value across business operations.

As organizations face mounting pressure to deliver greater strategic value while operating under stricter budgets and tighter timelines, Esker All Access 2026 will focus on helping teams move from early-stage AI adoption to practical application. Attendees will learn how organizations are applying intelligent automation to address real-world business challenges – from optimizing AP and AR processes to improving order management and customer interactions.

“Finance leaders do not need another generic AI assistant. They need trusted, purpose-built agents embedded in the workflows that determine cash, working capital, and business performance. At Esker All Access, we will show how Synergy AI is evolving beyond task automation to help organizations detect issues, make better decisions and coordinate action across Source-to-Pay and Order-to-Cash,” said Emmanuel Olivier, Deputy CEO and Worldwide CRO at Esker. “This year will be especially exciting, as we give attendees a first look at what’s next for Esker’s Synergy AI and how we’re continuing to advance our unified suite for the Office of the CFO.”

Esker All Access attendees can expect:

- Practical AI strategies that deliver real, measurable results: Sessions will explore developments in AI and automation, including Agentic AI, and how teams can apply emerging capabilities across finance, procurement, and customer service workflows to improve working capital, accelerate financial execution and reduce process exceptions.

- Lessons from customers putting AI automation into practice: In panel and keynote sessions, customers will share successes and roadblocks, giving attendees an opportunity to learn how peers are using AI automation to improve operational efficiency and translate technology investments into better business outcomes.
- A first look at the next evolution of Synergy AI: Attendees will discover purpose-built Synergy AI Agents embedded across Source-to-Pay and Order-to-Cash workflows, with explainable recommendations, enterprise governance and human oversight.
- Opportunities to learn directly from experts and peers: Breakout sessions, customer roundtables, networking, and personalized one-on-one consultations will allow attendees to exchange best practices and receive guidance tailored to their organizations.

Esker All Access 2026 will take place September 8-10 in Chicago. Registration is open to customers, prospects, partners, and other business leaders interested in learning how AI-powered automation can positively impact their teams, processes, and outcomes.
